MARY PICKFORD

—IN—
Stella
Maris

For the First Time in Her Career Miss Pickford, in This Play Undertakes a Dual Role, portraying the part of Stella Maris, a sweet, gentle girl, and Unity Blake, the ugly and deformed orphan. In the latter role there are many scenes of great pathos and sensationalism. Miss Pickford's interpretation of two separate and distinct parts, each one of stellar proportions, presents her artistry as effectively as if she had appeared in two different photoplays.

U. S. FIGHTING FOR HIGH IDEALS, SAYS GOVERNOR

ETERNAL PRINCIPLES ARE AT STAKE IN WORLD WAR.

MUNCIE. CONFERENCE ENDS

(Special to The Indianapolis News)
MUNCIE, Ind., February 9.—"We are in this war not primarily because the Germans invaded Belgium, had as that was, nor because they destroyed a part of northern France and assassinated Serbia, but we are in it because the Germans violated that solemn treaty with us, destroyed our property and killed our men, women and children upon the high seas—that is how we got into this war," declared Governor Goodrich, presiding over the final mass meeting of the Delaware county war conference last night. "But now that we have taken the plunge, we find ourselves fighting for high ideals as well as for the preservation of the world, principles that are as eternal as truth itself, and they are unselfish."
The Governor continued: "When the civil war began the people of the north did not fight to free the slaves, but to preserve the Union, but with that idea the slavery issue was so interwoven that the north soon found itself fighting for the great principle of human freedom. And so we are in this struggle, although fighting first because of injuries done us, also because we have a even higher, loftier task to perform."
The Campbell auditorium, in which the mass meetings were held, seats 4,000 persons, and at all three meetings every seat was taken and hundreds were turned away.

Says Allied Line Will Hold.

One of the attractions of the last day of the conference was the Purdue Military Band. Its patriotic music aroused the crowds to a fervor of enthusiasm at times, and the musicians were forced to respond to repeated requests. Community singing in charge of Dean McCutchan, of DePauw university, also was a feature of the meetings, the crowds responding with a will to the request to sing old favorites, "Swanee River," "Annie Laurie," and others.

Lieutenant W. G. Masson, of a Canadian artillery regiment, who spent nearly three years at the front, and was retired on account of physical disability, declared he had no fear of the line breaking on the western front, and America will keep her allies supplied with plenty of food and continue to send soldiers.

Dr. Sherman L. Davis, of Indiana university, expressed the opinion, based on knowledge of conditions in Germany acquired during a residence of seven years there, that the war may last from five to ten years longer.
Everett Colby, a member of the American commission that recently investigated conditions in France and England, said that America must realize that the only certainty of enduring peace lies in the defeat of the German army.

Mrs. Curtis Hodges, of Indianapolis, spoke on food conservation, in line with other addresses she has been making for the state council of defense.

Mayor Jewett Speaks.

Indianapolis Executive on Program at Sullivan County Conference.

(Special to The Indianapolis News)
SULLIVAN, Ind., February 9.—Sullivan county's war conference opened this morning at the Christian church. Speakers at the morning session were Major W. J. Gidley, of the Canadian army; Donald Sushane, superintendent of schools at Clinton; the Rev. G. E. Francis, of Brazil; and Miss Eleanor Barber, representative of the women's section. Music for the session was provided by a community chorus and the Sullivan orchestra.
At the afternoon session R. B. Armstrong, war savings and thrift stamp representative; Dr. George L. Mackintosh, president of Wabash college, and Mayor Charles W. Jewett, of Indianapolis, were speakers.
At the night session Everett Colby, of New Jersey, who has just returned from the French front, and Mayor Jewett will speak.

THREE-STORY BUILDING IS SOLD FOR $60,000

MRS. CAREY SELLS E. WASHINGTON ST. PROPERTY.

HAAG INTERESTS TO USE IT

Through a real estate transaction completed Friday in which Mrs. Mary Carey, widow of S. C. Carey, sold the building at 23 East Washington street to Elvora C. Haag for a consideration of $60,000, this property has been acquired by the Haag drug interests, which will establish one of their drug stores in the building.
The property is a three-story brick structure, steam-heated, and is situated at the corner of the alley on the north side of Washington street, with a frontage of thirty-eight feet, between Alabama and New Jersey streets. In the corner room on the alley there is at present a saloon. This room will be vacated when the saloons go out of business in April, and the room is to be remodeled for use as a drug store by the Haag interests. The upper stories of the building are leased by the Craig hotel. This lease still has some time to run, but at its termination these floors will be used as roasting rooms and store rooms for coffee, which is to be distributed to the drug stores of this company.
